

Have you participated in a driving assessment or training?

Are you over age 50?

Or are you a care provider for a driver with Alzheimer's who has had a driving assessment?

Our research team would like to hear about your experience.

The MIT AgeLab is interested in learning more about older adults' experiences with driving assessments and driver rehabilitation. Our project is designed to learn more about the role that driver evaluations can play for older adults and their families.

We are looking for adults who are willing to take part in a one-hour telephone interview about their experiences with driving assessments and driver rehabilitation.

We would like to talk with:

- Adults age 50 or older who have had a driving evaluation and/or driving rehabilitation; or
- Spouses, adult children or other care providers for someone who has had a driving evaluation and who has Alzheimer's disease or another dementia.

We will schedule the one hour interview at a time convenient for you. You will be compensated $75 for your participation in the interview.

If you are interested in taking part in the study or in learning more, please contact Dr. Lisa D'Ambrosio at the MIT AgeLab by telephone toll-free at 1-866-326-0752, or by e-mail at dambrosi@mit.edu.

For further information about the MIT AgeLab, go to our website: web.mit.edu/agelab

Thank you for your interest!