Striscia: Teenage daughter of Vincenzo Cardinal Tesla and Mario Cammarata raised by Artemis Rousakis; remote-controlling robot cat. Looking for Daddy, who she thinks is in Rome; help Blofeld do good.

Don Antonio Gaultieri: Email part. The Don of the mafia, choosing a successor before he dies.

Backstory

Clone Doctor: Dr. Clemente Mastella invented human cloning. He tried to get Pope Adam Paul to support him (with a little poking from Blofeld), by sending the Pope a clone of himself, but the Pope wasn't going for it. He was discovered by the The Desolating Abomination people, who killed him and blew up his lab. But he had made a backup clone (Arthur Moncrief), who didn't really remember what he was up to.

Death of the Pope: Meanwhile, Professor Norman Wellrock was attempting to perform a Black Mass in St. Peter's Basilica. He poisoned Pope Adam Paul (and a number of visitors) with the PrP-52 prion, the best cure for which was to eat another poisoned person's spleen. He zombie-drugged and poisoned the previous Archivist and sent him to the Pope with the instructions "Come with me to the Basilica, kill me and eat my spleen, and you will live." Being a saint in the making, the Pope declined to do so, and died, though not before sending letters to the other poisoned people. But remember the part about Dr. Clemente Mastella trying to talk to the Pope about clones? Dr. Efisio Giorda hears about this and tries to get the Pope to do something with his clone (a non-poisoned body!), but the Pope is also unwilling to take over a clone's body. Dr. Giorda records the Pope's memories, hoping to transfer them into the clone body, but the lab is blown up and the doctor killed before he can figure out how.

Badly Entangled Love Plots: Desirae Van Kirk is really a guy. Mario Cammarata is really a girl (his "dead" twin sister, Maria). Both of them are getting some possible flak from having "gay" lovers (Andrea Worhall and Guiseppe Refa, respectively), and decide to have a sham wedding (to look good for the new Hayes Code and the Don, respectively). Before when she was "killed," Maria had an affair with Vincenzo Cardinal Tesla, and after taking up Mario's place, she had a daughter, Mona Rousakis, who was given up for adoption via Sister Mary Ignatius and raised by Artemis Rousakis. Mona snuck to Rome to look for her father, but to keep secret from her "Mom", she was running a remote-controlled robot cat, Striscia.

Plots

Virtue Plague: Three carriers of more evolved forms of Blofeld's virtue plague, each trying to infect others with it for one reason or another.

Reconciliation: Figuring out a new credo for the new church and determining which groups end up in or out.

Mourning: Give cool speeches for Influence, Favors, and plots.

Election: People trying to become pope.

Subsub: Trying to find the lost russian nuclear sub.

Subnuke: Trying to get the nuke off of the lost russian sub.

Subart: Trying to get the stolen russian art from the russian sub.

Blue Heavens: Trying to figure out the wedding; Desirae and Mario getting married to cover up their “problematic” relationships.

Calico Cat: Dead clone doctor’s cat, carrying the Universal Stem Cell on its collar. Feed it its favorite food to get the collar.

UPS Truck: Mobile drug lab running experiments for the clone doctor; catch it by checking the pharmaceutical sites in game.

Loki Plague: A memetic virus jumping from person to person carrying abilities and psychlims. Catch it by finding people it’s infected and puzzling out the utterance that’ll force it to jump to you and stay there.

Braindrier: A memory reader/writer, stashed in a locker in the train station. People on the plot could figure out how to use it if they read enough memories out of it.

Cloning Metaplot: Find the hidden research lab of Dr. Clemente Mastella, having gotten at least one map from the: Calico Cat, the UPS Truck, the Loki Plague, and the Braindrier.

Oil Bacteria: Breed the oleophagic bacteria to protect of destroy oil fields.

Volcano Control Center: Use vice attacks to make Blofeld reminisce about the Volcano Control Center’s defenses.

Cask: The Japanese Ambassador / Yakuza negotiator is bricked up in the sewers. . . find him before anyone else does.

Swissfounding: Find the documents that say great/terrible things about the Swiss Guard.

Assassin Citadel: Find the location of the ancient Assassin Citadel and send a strike team to loot it.

Mozambique: A bunch of people trying to pull off a certain art heist, and mostly trying to double-cross each other.

Reparations: Determining the amount and distribution of reparations from colonial powers to ex-colonies. Mostly done by Mourning.

Mars: Who should control Mars? Mostly done by Mourning.

Palnuke: A nuke Blofeld sold to the Israelis accidentally got left in Palestine. Get it!

Spleeneaters: Poisoned with the Pope. You get cured if you eat the spleen of someone else poisoned. . . or do a complicated hat trick with blood and communion wafers.

Famine Relief: Get strike team donations for famine relief.

Deaths and Other Removals

This sentence inexplicably needed to prevent a latex error.

Captain Armin Montandon (James Wnorowski) and Lian Zheng (Hongyi Hu): Killed by Reverend Randy Standwell (Dennis Perepelitsa) as part of the Assassins’ “Take out the Swiss Guard” plan.

Lt. Augustina Dupin (Stephanie Paige) and Lt. Danielle Crispin (Bertha Tang): Killed by Allesandro Nocetti (Clayton Sims) and R.K. Priyamkara (Beth Baniszewski) as part of the above plan.

Allesandro Nocetti (Clayton Sims): Hospitalized, arrested and jailed as an unintended part of the above plan. Sadly, he had most of the Assassins’ important stuff on him at the time.

Leroy Jenkins (Eli Stickgold): Killed by Giacomo Tinagli (Cassie Huang), we’re not entirely sure why. “Baptists are evil”?

Piera Dagostino (Daniel Kane): Killed by Gene Kimble (David Sheets)? We seem to have lost his death report.

Father Guiseppe Alenio (Forrest Green): Killed by Mario Cammarata (Joe Foley) for blackmailing Giacomo Tinagli (Cassie Huang), which he was. Though it was for killing his daughter and covering it up, which the Mafia might have cared about.

Gene Kimble (David Sheets): Killed by Enrico Gallati (Xavid Pretzer) in a battle in the sewers over the oil bacteria.

Arthur Moncrief (Telmo Correa), Jean Baptiste Moreau (Kate Kuznetsova), Artemis Rousakis (Michelle Goldberg), and Sister Mary Ignatius (Gweniviere Capron): Killed by Reverend Randy Standwell (Dennis Perepelitsa) in the hopes that they might have useful spleens. They didn't.

Enrico Gallati (Xavid Pretzer): Killed by Guiseppe Refa (Nicholas Harrington), who had concluded that he was 1) a spy and 2) had killed Gene Kimble. Both true.

His Most Reverend Archbishop Joseph Darjeeling (Diandra Lucia): Killed (exploding cortex bomb) by Reverend Randy Standwell (Dennis Perepelitsa) for bowing out of the Shepherd race. Unfortunately for Standwell, Darjeeling's spleen would have cured him, but killing him in the public meeting nixed that.

Reverend Randy Standwell (Dennis Perepelitsa): Killed by Mario Cammarata (Joe Foley) on general suspicion of evil.

R.K. Priyamkara (Beth Baniszewski): Hospitalized following neurosurgery to remove his cortex bomb.

Dr. Jenny Penny (Theresa Robinson): Killed by Guiseppe Refa (Nicholas Harrington), because she was in competition with the FSB over getting the nuclear sub.

Guiseppe Refa (Nicholas Harrington): Killed by Mario Cammarata (Joe Foley) as he was chasing down a witness to Jenny Penny's death. Alas, the tragedy, shot by his lover!

His Eminence Fabrizio Cardinal Piccoli (Ash Turza) and Dr. Efsio Giorda (Kendra Beckler): Died of spleen poisoning, in the morgue, choosing not to eat the spleens that would cure them.

Emmett Fleischer (Zak Fallows): Died of spleen poisoning, presumably in the comfort of his own home.

Father Marco Castiglione (Pete Litwak): Died of cancer. God called him home.

Don Antonio Gaultieri (Amitai Axelrod): Died of old age.

Professor Norman Wellrock (David Foster): Arrested and jailed for murdering Pope Adam Paul.

Awards

- Wrath: His Eminence Mel Cardinal Gibson (Margaret Gentile) and Bartolomeo Quist (Kelsey Byers) for deciding that exorcising Pat Robertson was too hard, and shooting him.
- Avarice: James Bond (Rickland Powell) "I don't care about the Indian Ambassador: I WANT THE CORTEX BOMBS"
- Sloth: Everyone who punted.
- Pride: Father Guiseppe Alenio (Forrest Green) for using an anagram of his name for the pseudonymous gmail address from which he sent death threats.
- Lust: Dr. Jenny Penny (Theresa Robinson) for bringing a unique viewpoint to the discussion of art.
- Envy: To everyone who panicked about Cardinal Sabotini getting too many votes in the first 24 hours.
- Gluttony: Reverend Randy Standwell (Dennis Perepelitsa) for totally losing the Spleen-card monte game (killing seven people, eating four spleens, and killing in a public meeting the one whose spleen would cure him).

- Temperance: His Eminence Fabrizio Cardinal Piccoli (Ash Turza) and Dr. Efsio Giorda (Kendra Beckler) for refraining from eating the poisoned spleens, choosing to die instead.
- Charity: Boxovna Kornchekhs (Jessie Lowell) and R.K. Priyamkara (Beth Baniszewski) for funding the African relief effort.
- Fortitude: Father Camerlengo Dante Pascuzzi (Ken Clary), His Eminence Vincenzio Cardinal Tesla (Diane Christoforo), and His Eminence Gaspare Cardinal Castrati (Yelena Tsitkin), for spending over an hour interrogating the utterly insane Joshua Rosen (Courtney Shiley).
- Hope: Arthur Moncrief (Telmo Correa) for his dedicated trail-following and quest for the name of his cat. (We also appreciated his dead drop).
- Faith: To the Reconciliation Committee, for flushing their other plots to make sure that everyone (almost) was part of the new faith.
- Prudence: To Team Awesome, for their Fortress of Doom, holed up on the first floor of building 24.

- Justice: Mario Cammarata (Joe Foley), for shooting his lover, Guiseppe Refa (Nicholas Harrington), before he realized who it was.

Rookies of the Year: Telmo Correa and Kendra Beckler.

“Technically Not A Rookie”, of the Year: Kevin Riggle
