Subject: 2014 Fall Rapid Recruiting

3M Company is visiting MIT early this year for Rapid Recruiting of PhD candidates and postdocs considering careers in industry. Rapid recruiting is a process where 3M can meet and interview promising candidates and then bring them promptly to 3M to further discuss career opportunities. An MIT alum from 3M will come out to interview PhD candidates on September 15 and 16 targeting Chemical Engineering, Material Science and Engineering, and Mechanical Engineering students who are doing research broadly related to materials (e.g. synthesis, properties), product applications, and manufacturing.

We would like you to encourage your top PhD students to submit a resume for interviews using Career Bridge Schedule ID 3512 (Section ID 6257 and 6256). The deadline for resume submission is September 5. Then 3M will inform the candidates selected for interview on 9/11, after which the students have a few days to sign-up for interview time-slots.

We are eager to get this to your attention now, because the end of August and early September can be such a hectic time. Thank you for attention and your interest in helping your students learn more about rewarding careers in a technology and research-focused company.
