This workshop is open to undergraduates, graduate students, postdocs and alumni. Advanced registration requested via CareerBridge.

Career Planning for Financial Independence
Wednesday, February 19, 2:00-3:30pm, 68-181
Come learn about building your financial independence over the course of your career. Alan McMillan, Sloan Fellow '91, will be presenting on critical life skills for emerging university talent. McMillan will:
- Demystify personal financial management
- Share a macro view for you to become aware of your financial situation and long term strategy
- Give pragmatic steps for your early career years
This is not a ‘how to invest your money’ seminar, rather McMillan will discuss long term planning over the course of your career and simple steps to make you financial freedom more certain. Advanced registration requested via CareerBridge.

Off the Record - 1:1 with a Silicon Valley Tech Recruiter
Wednesday, February 19, 4:00-5:00pm, 5-134
Join us for an off-the-record conversation with a Silicon Valley Tech Recruiter. Sometimes students are at a disadvantage by not understanding the campus recruitment process from an employer’s perspective. The talk will be geared towards explaining how recruitment across the tech industry works, while revealing common misconceptions that students have about the hiring process. The goal is for students to walk away from the talk with immediate action items that they can apply to their own job search now or in the future. The event will be 45 minutes of interactive conversation and then open Q&A. T-shirts and other giveaways will be distributed. RSVP prior to the event for a chance to win a Kindle HDX: http://bit.ly/A9MIT

Practice Makes Perfect: Peer Mock Interviews
Thursday, February 20, 3:00-4:00pm, 1-246
In this group mock interview session, students will have a unique chance to practice and sharpen their interview skills. We will briefly review interviewing wisdom, discuss the art of giving and receiving feedback, then all participants will have a chance to answer questions and get feedback on their responses. Students who participate should first attend one of our in-person interviewing workshops or listen to our online workshop, Effective Interviewing, at http://gecd.mit.edu/workshop/interviewing/index.htm. Limited to 18 participants; register on CareerBridge under the Events tab. Drop-ins may be able to attend.
