Student opportunity: MIT Entrepreneurship Review

Interested in entrepreneurship or business? Want to meet and work with students from all over campus? The MIT Entrepreneurship Review (http://miter.mit.edu/) is expanding its Business Development team. We are currently looking for:

External Partnerships Director(s)
The External Partnerships Director will be responsible for communicating with and building relationships with those outside the MIT campus. This includes developing partnerships with other publications (e.g., syndications with Huffington Post), corporate sponsors, and alumni.

Community Development Director(s)
The Community Development team plays a core role in the organization’s growth by connecting with students across MIT campus. This may include attending events around campus, planning MITER events, and acting as liaison to various departments in order to support recruiting efforts and build the MITER brand.

Marketing Director(s)
The Marketing Director will help build readership and the MITER brand by improving our presence online and on campus. This may include SEO/SEM to drive traffic to our site, managing facebook/twitter, interacting with readers (e.g., newsletters, surveys, etc.) and potential print campaigns.

If you are interested in applying, please send your resume and a paragraph (<250 words) explaining: 1. why you are interested in joining the MITER team, and 2. what you can bring to your position of interest. Please email both to miter@gmail.com by Friday, Feb.24. If you have any questions, feel free to contact us!

What is the MIT Entrepreneurship Review (MITER)?
The MIT Entrepreneurship Review (MITER) is a student-run, online publication that examines the intersection of science, technology, and entrepreneurship. We are a group of undergraduates, masters students, PhDs, and alumni from MIT’s schools of engineering, science, and business. We view MITER as “where Einstein meets Edison”, or where “thinkers” meet “doers”. Our goal is to bring cutting edge knowledge, innovative ideas and practical experience to entrepreneurs. As such, we publish a variety of technical, analytical, and inspirational articles including real-life stories and advice from entrepreneurs as well as the latest theories and innovation from MIT and the industry.
