Federal Records Missing Important Data

August 5, 2009 – As Subsidyscope moves into the transportation sector, we've discovered major gaps in federal spending data. The Federal Assistance Award Data System (FAADS), whose numbers wind up on the Web site USAspending.gov, is replete with omissions nearly three years after Congress passed the Federal Funding Accountability and Transparency Act of 2006 -- better known as the Coburn-Obama Act, after its key Senate sponsors. The act requires full public disclosure of federal

110th CONGRESS

2d Session

S. 3728

IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES

December 10, 2008

Mr. Sanders introduced the following bill; which was read twice and referred to the Committee on Environment and Public Works

A BILL

To direct the Secretary of Transportation to waive non-Federal share requirements for certain transportation programs and activities through September 30, 2009.

SECTION 1. NON-FEDERAL SHARE REQUIREMENTS APPLICABLE TO TRANSPORTATION PROGRAMS AND ACTIVITIES.

(a) Definition of Covered Transportation Program or Activity.--In this section, the term ``covered transportation program or activity'' means a program or activity for which funds are authorized under the Safe, Accountable, Flexible, Efficient Transportation Equity Act: A Legacy for Users (Public Law 109-59) or an amendment made by that Act.

(b) Temporary Waiver.--For the period specified in subsection (c), the Secretary of Transportation shall waive any requirement that would otherwise require a State or local government to contribute non-Federal funds toward the cost of a covered transportation program or activity.

(c) Applicability.--Subsection (b) shall apply with respect to a covered transportation program or activity carried out by a State or local government during the period beginning on the date of enactment

Public Blocked From Key Parts of U.S. Dam Inspection Data

By Jim Morris | Mar 15, 2010 | 12:26 p.m.

In the middle of the night on Nov. 6, 1977, the Kelly Barnes Dam near Toccoa Falls, Georgia, gave way, unleashing a wall of water that killed 39 people. In a report, federal investigators blamed the failure on a combination of factors, including heavy rains and a breach in the 38-year-old earthen dam's crest that had been followed by progressive erosion.

The disaster prompted President Jimmy Carter to direct the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to begin inspecting the nation's "non-federal high-hazard dams," according to the Association of State Dam Safety Officials. The findings of this inspection program were responsible for the establishment of dam safety programs in most states.

The Corps maintains inspection data on some 79,000 dams around the country. Its National Inventory of Dams is open to the public, but with restrictions. Upon recommendation of the security-conscious National Dam Safety Review Board in 2007, the Corps blocked public access to key fields such as the downstream hazard potential and the city nearest the dam.

The Max Baucus Health Care Lobbyist Complex

Tracking Baucus' Former Staff Members Who Lobby For The Health and Insurance Sectors

As Chair of the Senate Finance Committee, Sen. Max Baucus is one of the most instrumental lawmakers in crafting the health care reform that President Barack Obama has promised. In his many years on the committee, Baucus has amassed a wealth of connections to the health care and insurance industries, often through his ties to former staffers turned lobbyists.

The five former Baucus staffers who now lobby for the health care or insurance interests represent twenty-seven different companies or associations. In some cases these lobbyists have the same clients. These connections expose how close the many organizations seeking influence on health care reform are to one of the most powerful players in Washington.
