MIT Activities Committee (MITAC)

Established in 1983, the MIT Activities Committee (MITAC) was created to research, plan, promote, and administer low-cost recreational and cultural events and activities to MIT employees. The committee, comprised of employee and retiree volunteers from both campus and Lincoln Laboratory, meet every two months. Information flyers are published year-round; events and activities are available to all members of the MIT Community. MITAC is a part of the Community Services Office.
