

THE DEEPEST DIVE IN HISTORY

On January 23rd 1960, Donald Walsh and Jacques Piccard dived 35,800 feet beneath the surface of the Pacific in their submersible, Trieste — the deepest human dive in history. Hear one of the men who made this epic plunge tell his story of technology, the Cold War and descent into the abyss.

“To the Far Depths: A Personal Odyssey”

Guest Speaker: Dr. Donald Walsh, USN (ret.)

Friday, March 14, 5:00 pm

Gilliland Auditorium, MIT Building 66 Room 110

Free and open to the public

UPCOMING DEEPARCH PUBLIC LECTURES

April 25: “Civil War High Tech: Excavating the Hunley and Monitor” Mini-Symposium

May 1: “Deep-Sea Archaeology via Telepresence”
Guest Speaker: Dr. Robert Ballard

2003 DEEPARCH PUBLIC LECTURE SERIES

Sponsored by MIT’s “DeepArch” Research Group in Technology, Archaeology, and the Deep Sea. MIT’s Program in Science, Technology, and Society. With support from the Office of Ocean Exploration, National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration

<http://web.mit.edu/sts/deeparch>

