

For my project, I decided to put pictures of mountain animals, which I took this past summer in Banff National Park in Alberta, Canada, into Killian court. I began with the following pictures.

I then cut out the animal with the magnetic lasso, changed then to black and white, and then altered the brightness and contrast, and also applied a gradient. I added the animals to the picture of Killian Court, and then smoothed out the edges. Here is the final picture.

