GCWS TEAM TEACHING INTERESTS

GCWS is developing a database of faculty from member institutions who are interested in teaching a course for the consortium in the future. Consortium courses are team-taught. The purpose of the database is to facilitate the process of forming teaching teams. If you are interested in potentially teaching for GCWS in the future, and you would like to be included in the database, please fill out this form.

Name ________________________________

Institution ________________________________

Email address ________________________________

Disciplinary appointment ________________________________

Academic specializations ________________________________

May we include a link to your faculty page? □yes □no

Keywords that describe your interests in a team taught GCWS course

Please select three keywords from the list on the back of this form. These will be used as search terms on our website.

1. ____________________

2. ____________________

3. ____________________

Course idea

Do you already have a course idea? Is there a theme or issue around which you’d be interested in building a course with someone from another discipline? If so, please provide a brief description.
Key words

Conflict/War
Critical development studies
Digital culture
Embodiment/body studies
Environmentalism
Family/Parenting
Feminist theory
Gender theory
Globalization and Development
Governance/Political Processes
Human Rights
Immigration and Migration
Literary criticism
Masculinity studies
Material Culture
Media studies
Medicine/health
Post colonialism
Queer theory/LGBT studies
Race theory/studies
Religion/Spirituality
Research Methodology/Methods
Science
Sexuality
Technology
Trans/nonbinary studies
Transnationalism
US history
Visual Culture
World history

If none of the keywords above adequately represent the subject area of course idea, please suggest a keyword on the front and place an asterisk (*) next to it.