

Lecture Series on Language Diversity and Language Rights in celebration of
UN Year of Languages 2008

Lessons from Lardil

Tense Concord, Generation Harmony, and the Rainbow Serpent

Professor Norvin Richards speaks on Lardil, linguistics fieldwork, and endangered languages.

Wednesday, May 7th
5pm in 32-144
Food will be provided.

Professor Norvin Richards of the MIT Linguistics Department will speak of his work on Lardil, an Aboriginal language of northern Australia that is nearly extinct. (As of 2000, it had only two speakers remaining.)

This lecture is free and open to the public.
Sponsored by MIT Linguistics Society and MIT Esperanto Society

Learn to Save an Endangered Language

MIT Linguistics Society • <http://web.mit.edu/mitlings> • mitlings@mit.edu
MIT Esperanto Society • <http://web.mit.edu/esperanto> • spe-ak@mit.edu