

General Collections Guide to MIT Subject Files

BOSTON CAMPUS

Photographs, news clippings, maps, associated ephemera and documentation on the buildings centered in Back Bay, Boston that comprised MIT from its founding to the move to Cambridge in 1916. Building files include the Rogers, Walker and Pierce Buildings. For cataloguing purposes, all Boston campus buildings are assigned numbers by order of construction date. Each building file contains photographs and written material on some or all of the following elements: plans, renderings, building exterior, interior, destruction. Photographs of the Boston campus can also be found in individual departmental files.

Boston Campus (building numbers assigned by museum)

Building 14, Engineering Building C

Building 15, Garrison Street Gymnasium

Building 16, Technology Union

Building 17, Technology Chambers

Building 18, Brookline Athletic Field

CAMBRIDGE CAMPUS

Photographs, news clippings, maps, associated ephemera and documentation recording the development of MIT's Cambridge Campus from the original site selection to the present. These files include photographs of the site before and during construction of the campus, aerial views of entire campus 1916-1980, buildings that have been demolished such as Building 20, and buildings located off the main campus such as Endicott House. Existing buildings arranged by building number are also well documented. Each file may have photographs of some or all of the following scenes: renderings, models, plans, ground breaking, time capsules, dedication, construction, interior, exterior, and destruction. These files can often document changing functions of the building over time and provide images of people at work in departments and offices.

COMMITTEES, COUNCILS, ASSOCIATIONS

Photographs, news clippings and written material documenting MIT committees, councils and associations. Included are the Alumni Association, Black Alumni at MIT (BAMIT) and the Quarter Century Club. Computers Photographs, news clippings, and documents recording the development of computers and computing at MIT. Individual computers such as the Differential Analyzer, Whirlwind, TX0, and PDP1 are represented as well as the work of Laboratory for Computer Science.

Departments

Photographs, news clippings, associated documents and ephemera of all MIT academic departments from 1865 to present. These files include photographs of departmental laboratories, faculty and students, experiments, projects and instruments. Some of the earliest photographs of MIT departments date from the 1880's. These files may be arranged in earlier configurations of departments using names and organizational structures that are no longer current. Within each department, the topics are arranged chronologically where possible. Note: Headings preceded by "Boston Campus" indicate a date range of 1861- 1916, headings preceded by "Cambridge Campus" fall within 1916 - present. The bulk of the collection dates from the late 1880's to 1980's.

EVENTS, CELEBRATIONS, TRADITIONS

Photographs, news clippings, ephemera documenting annual and historical events and unique traditions of MIT. Subjects include annual events such as Commencement and Tech Day and subjects unique to the culture of MIT such as its mascot, the beaver. Files also record regular events such as lectures, visits by significant figures to MIT and conferences. Historical events documented include the Mid-Century Convocation, 1949, marked by Winston Churchill's visit to MIT; the move from Boston's Back Bay across the river to Cambridge celebrated with an elaborate ceremony, The Mask of Power; and the blizzard of 1978.
