

I.A.P. Mystery Hunt '87

Supplementary Clues

Noon, Sunday

As of Sunday morning, the coin had not yet been found.

These statements were told to those who called us yesterday.

1. Correction: V should be one less than what's asked for.
2. Apparently, some mystery hunters tampered with some things in an attempt to mislead or cause difficulties for groups that followed. We found two cases of this and corrected them as best we could. (Note that not many clues are vulnerable to tampering.)
3. Interpreting the phrase "the logical place" is one of the trickiest parts of the hunt.

Some hopefully helpfull hints:

- Deciduous trees loose their leaves in the fall.
- The Compton Penthouse is not in Building 10.
- When you enter via a revolving door, you will be directed to the "logical" place.
- The basement of the George Eastman Research Laboratory may be interesting, in a way, to EECS majors.
- Remember the Alamo!
- The "logical" place also sounds like it has no bell.
- X is a six digit number.
