

MYSTERY HUNT II: more clues

MYSTERY HUNT I: Winners were Raymond Coxe and Mellissa Rathmell at around 8PM.

It was hidden in the SCLIBRARYDONQUIXOTE. The answers to the specific subclues are: Student, Center, Look, Inn, Book, Room, Around, Railroad, Yard, Deliver, Opposes, Ninety, Q, Under, Irene adler, X, Orange, Ten, Eta.

CLARIFICATIONS: A "turn" of the Rubic's cube is defined as a rotation of an outer layer by a multiple of ninety degrees.

For the Playfair cipher, the 26 letters are fit into a 5X5 grid by cramming the I and the J into the same box.

Please don't tell Brian or Janet that I am involved with this, they might not understand.

I apologize to all speakers of Sanskrit - I had no idea that those two words meant anything in another language.

Subclue 2 should be 16 17 25, 54 55, 56 63 71, 75 80 99

NEXT YEAR: I am graduating this year (I hope). Perhaps one of you would like to run a Mystery Hunt like activity next IAP? I'd be happy to talk over what is required - and I'm sure you have ideas of your own.

WEDNESDAY CLUE SHEET: If the penny is not found by Wednesday noon, then the Wednesday clue sheet will insure that the penny is found quickly. I hope it won't be a literal foot race, but it might be something close. After all, I want to go to the SF marathon also.

TUESDAY'S CLUES:

SUBCLUE 1: The blue/white cubes (which now appear together as a unit) have been separated and then reunited.

SUBCLUE 2: 13, 15 17 23, 30 33 40 41, 43 44, 59 65 66 67, 69 73 83, 87 99

SUBCLUE 3: First word is first.

SUBCLUE 4: P-Y F- D-.

SUBCLUE 5: Atlas Eclipticalis - in Virgo

SUBCLUE 6: A street in Littleton Colorado starts with the letters GALL-, and the last letters of the street name are the answer to this subclue.

SUBCLUE 7: Take the answer that is literal and drop the th.

SUBCLUE 8: I lifted all these definitions out of the British crossword puzzles in old Games magazines.

SUBCLUE 9: Rebelled against Aetius.

SUBCLUE 10: SKWAAK
