MIT's Journal of Arts & Letters

Who we are:

Rune was established in 1974 and remains MIT's only art and literature magazine. The editorial staff consists of ten students who are devoted to presenting the artistic and literary abilities of their peers to the rest of the MIT community. Rune receives approximately 500 submissions and publishes about 50 artists and writers each year.

What we do:

We have two submission deadlines (one in the fall and one in the spring). Each piece is carefully reviewed by the editorial staff, and the top literature and art submissions are chosen for publication.

In addition to publication, the staff holds an annual release party to congratulate the published contributors. Artists and writers are invited to speak about their pieces and interact with their fellow artists.

Rune publishes once per year in May, and we print approximately 1200 copies which are distributed at no cost to the greater MIT community.

How you can help:

Our general operating cost is $7000 per year, $6000 of which goes directly to the publication of our archival quality magazine. Last year we received funding from the UA Finboard, Council for the Arts at MIT, and Program in Writing and Humanistic Studies. Your contribution will help us continue to provide this valuable service to the rest of the MIT community.
