(DeMartino.Molly@bcg.com) The Boston Consulting Group is an international strategy and general management consulting firm whose mission is to help leading corporations create and sustain competitive advantage.

BCG can be your first-or next-step in a business career, as well as an exciting and highly rewarding job opportunity. Within a few weeks of joining us, you will begin putting your talent and creativity to work as part of a team advising a wide range of world-class organizations on some of the most complex issues they face. We hire consultants from a multitude of backgrounds, including new graduates in many fields from the world's most prestigious universities and people who have been working for a few years in a variety of industries. Although each of our consultants has a distinct profile, what they all have in common is the ability and desire to make a difference for BCG's clients.
