

Becoming a "Tech" Trader 101 by Robert Khoury

Please join us in a talk on Jobs in Trading and Technology: An Insider's Perspective on How to Profit From Your Tech Skills

Date: Tuesday, May 5th

Time: 6:00 - 7:00 PM (followed by Informal Chat)

Location: Room 4-231

Want to know how to merge your technical skills with the trading world? Come learn more about the technology in an exciting sector in finance in a presentation by 2 experienced traders, Brennan Hughes and Robert Khoury. Q&A session will follow and dinner is provided.

In summary:

- Learn about Becoming a "Tech" Trader
 - Career Paths and Roles in Trading and Technology
 - Quantitative Trading Firm Organizational Structures and Job Description Detailed Analyses
 - Preparing For Your Interviews
 - Lifecycle of An Algorithmic Trade
 - Automated Trading Trends
 - Continual Evolution of Electronic Trading
 - Useful Publications and Other Resources
- Have your questions on tech in trading answered.
- Enjoy a free dinner.

Hosted in partnership with Traders@MIT.

Robert Khoury, Partner

Capitalizing on his experience in the high frequency trading domain, Rob started World Wide Recruiting in 2007 to serve a global base of algorithmic trading entities. Prior to World Wide Recruiting, Rob joined Global Electronic Trading Company, LLC (GETCO) in 2004 as Senior Vice President of Strategy. For three years, he was accountable for managing the recruiting process for all positions. He also executed on the firm's new Asia office staffing plan.

Previously, Rob was an Equity Derivatives Trader at First Chicago Capital Markets and a Portfolio Manager at NewArc Investments. He is a graduate of Princeton University and an MBA from Duke University's Fuqua School of Business.

He has a passion for recruiting and is committed to excellence, ongoing training and development, straight communication and results that matter.

Brennan Hughes, Senior Associate

Leveraging his commitment to an unparalleled level of service and pragmatism, Brennan has established himself as a reliable technical recruiter and resource for clients. The innate ability to grasp the role that technology plays in Finance, and how candidates will contribute to continued growth and development of the field, is what separates Brennan from the rest.