Description and Budget

The annual Bad Ideas weekend is a three day event held during a weekend of IAP (this year January 25-27) that is meant to support students in pursuing projects and events that would normally be branded as bad ideas. We canvass the undergraduate community months in advance for project and event proposals that form an entertaining schedule of bad ideas for the weekend. Some previous projects and events include chocolate chess piece tournaments, real life Mario kart, and baking 10,000 cookies.

The event has been growing in popularity and attendance around campus in recent years, with our last meeting to collect proposals drawing a very diverse crowd of undergraduates. To match the increased level of participation of the MIT community in bad ideas, we are looking to raise the available budget for projects and events. The UA council has previously contributed to bad ideas out of its discretionary fund (most recently in 2011 in the amount of $2,500). We are formally requesting for the same amount this year, with additional sources of funding helping us to our goal of $13,000 for the 2013 bad ideas.

Unfortunately, due to the year-to-year nature of bad ideas, we cannot currently provide a precise breakdown of costs for this year, since we will still be accepting project proposals for several weeks. However, we can provide last year's budget, which is itemized precisely (see attachment); this is essentially going to be the same as the budget for this year, with project names updated and a larger total of projects and events overall.

We appreciate your consideration!

AY2011 Request

A. Excerpt from 42 UAS 8.3: Bill to Improve the Cross-Campus Nature of the “Bad Ideas” Weekend

Be it enacted, by the Undergraduate Association assembled in Senate:

That $300.00 from the UA Senate Discretionary Fund be allocated to Bad Ideas to fund advertising posters, Lobby 7 signs, electronic slides in the Infinite, etc. to promote Bad Ideas before the Bad Ideas weekend; and

That $75.00 from the UA Senate Discretionary Fund be allocated to Bad Ideas for the purpose of creating schedules of the Bad Ideas events that would likely appeal to all of campus, such as free-food events and large-scale group events; and

That $825 from the UA Senate Discretionary Fund be allocated to Bad Ideas to fund food events. These events will all have food for general consumption and will be advertised across campus with the intent of drawing more people to Bad Ideas; and

That money only be transferred once a transaction report and event report are submitted to the UA Officers and Treasurer.
