It's possible for their own sake and for the sake of the animals and all the time you spend supervising them and stay away from them. And if you must come to this, it's better to do it when you come to wear—well, that's all I can say about it.

"I see our space is about used up," Wright, thank you for talking with us. Any questions? No, that's all.

Space Program
Modern technology is increasing at a rate which is outstripped only by the rate of the Manhattan explosion; which means that as science advances, and our technology increases, it becomes an increasingly necessary task for additional means of enlarging the habitable space in the universe, by the utmost in efficient mapping and disposition.

It is for this reason that we are shocked by the emptiness of space wasted in the Institute. Here at M.I.T. sup- posedly the cradle of technocratic planning, we find such dramatic wastes as that exhibited in the case of 50-009, a "Men's Room" in the basement of Walker Memorial. No amount of logistics can justify the relocation of 6,000 square feet of space for a Men's Room in Walker.

50-009 has five urinals, an equal number of sinks, and four private heads.
The room is large and open, with a square central area of no concealable use. In addition to the wasted space in the center of the room (occupied only by a very large waste-basket), the heads themselves are nearly six inches larger than the standard booth size. This is to say nothing of the wasted space due to the exceptionally high ceiling.

To compound matters, 50-009 is a relatively unused room. At almost any time of the day or night it can be found completely vacant; never more than two or three of the facilities in simul- taneous use, except for special functions.

We cannot condone or overlook this flagrant violation of conservation of space, and sternly reprimand the administra- tion under which it flourishes.

We heartily recommend that this room be made into a lecture hall, that it may serve again as a useful member of the intellectual-M.I.T. community, while remaining a pleasant and worthwhile addition to the catalog next year.

Appointment
The Board of Directors of The Rech has been pleased to announce that Mr. Earl Buck of Hauppauge has an appointment with his dentist on Tuesday.

The addition of a large recreation room will permit bigger games to be held on Sunday nights.

23. Spring Weekend, running even further in the red that expected, will either be cancelled or delayed. The weekend was to be held at the YMCA, instead of the Union. Unfortunately, it seems that the YMCA is unable to house all the participants, and therefore it is necessary to cancel the weekend. It is hoped that this decision will be reversed in the near future.

3. The Earth Science building has been delayed in reaching 50-009, where it will continue to remain at the rate of one tear per month. It seems that the building is just one big public relations stunt designed to promote the M.I.T. image. As soon as the building is finished, it will become a source of pride, and will be charged admission to climb to the top. The building will open a res- to-phantom park.

96. The MDC will place an officer in student affairs, in charge of building seven. The officer will be in charge of it when it is given to students who have violations.
The traffic will be limited to people who live in any of the buildings there.

New Courses
These new courses will be added to the catalog for the following reasons: (1) Because of the educational program of the 24-hour day, (2) Because of the educational program of the 4-year course, (3) Because of the educational program of the 3-year course. It is hoped that this decision will be reversed in the near future.

First, I would like to thank the many people who helped make yesterday's takeover a success. I promise that the armed guards will be removed from Institute facilities as soon as possible—by next October, or perhaps November, at the very latest.

Next, I would like to play up any nasty rumors concerning mass executions. I'm very sorry about the un-

MIT Mooners half fast but don't drag behind

The past year has witnessed the phenomenal growth of a new inter-collegiate sport: mooning. MIT is the acknowledged leader in the field, and it is estimated that as many as 351,000 mooners have been, or are currently, members of the MIT Mooners. This increase in popularity is attributed to the growing interest in mooning as a sport, particularly among the younger generation.

"Thanks, Jack. It's a pleasure." Wright, who is the head coach of the recently-organized Mooners team, was talking about the game of mooning. "Mooning is a sport that is gaining popularity among college students, particularly at MIT. It is a game that is played on the campus, and it is a sport that is enjoyed by both men and women."

Wright also mentioned that the MIT Mooners team has been participating in various mooning competitions and has won several awards. "The MIT Mooners are one of the best teams in the country, and we are proud to represent MIT in these competitions."
