Room Directions

MIT can be a tricky place to get around and the layout of the buildings can take some getting used to. The best way to get to know the campus is to wander around keeping your eyes on the changing numbers. All buildings are numbered, but not all have names! Until you get your bearings, it may be helpful to use the following directions to some of the frequently used rooms this summer. All directions begin from the large set of steps outside the main entrance at 77 Mass. Ave.

Bush Room (10-105)

Enter at 77 Mass. Ave., walk straight through the lobby down the long corridor. When you get to the next lobby, (large windows overlooking the central court) turn left and quickly turn left again to access the Bush Room.

The Student Center

You will get to know the Student Center very well as it has a number of services on the ground floors (convenience store, post office, dry cleaner, small bookstore and small eateries). Cross the street, the building is on your right after the walkway.

Multipurpose Room at Sidney and Pacific Dormitory (70 Pacific Street)

This is MIT’s newest graduate dormitory and is a 10 minute walk from the main campus. From 77 Mass. Ave., cross street, walk away from the river. Turn left on Albany Street. Walk down to Pacific Street and turn right and walk down to 70 (on your left). Enter building and go through the glass double doors to your right. The multipurpose room is on your immediate left.
